SPEECH OF SCHOOLCHILDREN

Movement to Improve and Later Make Perfect Is Work Undertaken By Brooklyn Association.

Dr. Frederick Martin, supervisor of the classes to correct speech defects in the public schools of the city, was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Heads of Departments association. His subject was "Speech Improvement."

Doctor Martin told of the organization of classes for speech defects and improvement throughout the city under his direction. He said that one of the objects of these classes was to give lessons to teachers that they might obtain better speaking in the classroom. That a teacher demand perfect articulation from her pupils he said was one of her duties. He said:

"Too often teachers are so interested in their subjects that they allow children to answer mumbly, thereby creating speech defects which only become paramount as the child grows older. Children of the lower grades are often excused of imperfect speech because the teachers call it 'baby talk' and think the child will outgrow it. Often they allow children to lisp because their teeth are out, and as the teeth grow in the child has formed an acute habit of lisping. We have 50,000 cases of speech defects in our elementary schools at the present time."

Under the direction of Doctor Martin and his 26 assistants, "vocal gymnastic" drills will be held in the schools daily. The object of these drills will be to get better voice support, proper placement of the tone of sound and an open-mouthed, rounded delivery.—Brooklyn Eagle.

HIGHER PRICE FOR RABBITS.

When the native Australian or the longtime resident hears the cry, "Rabbit, wild rabbit! Rabbit!" he knows that he can get a cheap dinner that will also taste good; for the rabbit hunter is going by. But rabbits are now not nearly so cheap as they were before the war. The demand for meat of any kind has raised the price. The supply, however, is almost inexhaustible, and since refrigeration and canning have been undertaken on a large scale, rabbit flesh has become an important item in the food supply of the world. One Australian firm last year canned 350,000 rabbits, and millions go to England and other countries in cold storage.—Youth's Companion.

THE CONSUMER MISCALCULATES

Often Pays More For Catalogue House Goods.

ONE FARMER'S EXPERIENCE.

Influenced by an Alluring Picture Book For a Time—Yards of Red Tape Used—Buying From a Picture Album is a Riskless Form of Gambling. See the Goods Before Purchase.

[Copyrighted, 1914, by Thomas J. Sullivan.]
Figures do not always indicate the price of goods sold by mail order houses as scheduled in their price lists, as the catalogue houses are careful not to mention the "extra" cost incidental to placing the order and the delivery of the article ordered.

The consumer is governed by the low catalogue price rather than the delivery cost, the latter means, of course, being the correct way of determining the cost of the article.

Consumer Buys Costly Saw.
As an example I reproduce herewith a conversation which recently took place in a western town when a consumer entered the local store and inquired the price of a saw. The price of the saw was $2, the merchant told him.

"Great guns!" declared the consumer. "I can get the same article from a catalogue house for $1.50!"

"I can't buy it for that price," said the merchant. "But I will give it to you on the same terms as the mail order house, just the same."

"All right," replied the consumer. "You can wrap it up and charge it to me, and when I settle in the fall I will pay for it."

"Hand Over the Cash."
"Oh, no, you don't," said the dealer. "We are doing business on the same terms as you do business with the mail order house—no charge accounts. Hand over the cash, please."

The consumer handed over $1.50. "Now," said the merchant, "5 cents for the money order and 2 cents for postage."

"But you must send a letter and a money order to the catalogue house in order to get the saw, you know?"
The consumer, although desiring to belt kept bravely to his agreement.

and "that life 7 cents." "Now the express charges, 45 cents, if you please." "Well, by gracious!" he said and gamely paid it, with the remark, "Now that I have met all of your demands hand me over my saw."

Man Made Mistake.
"Hand you the saw! Why, man, where do you think you are? Just recollect that you are in Texas and I am located in Chicago. You will have to wait about fifteen days for me to make the delivery." And, backing up his words with actions, he pocketed the money, put the saw back on the shelf and smilingly turned to wait on the next customer.

The consumer pondered, and after he got through with his deductions he said: "The saw will cost me $2.03. That is 3 cents more than I could have bought it for in the first place, and I am deprived of its use for fifteen days besides. No more mail order house for me!"

Incident Worthy of Emulation.
The incident related above is one which both the merchant and the consumer may read with profit, and if more of the merchants adopted the same tactics as did the Texas merchant they would have fewer mail order buyers among those who should be their customers.

And there is much more to this question than price and delivery; there are often dissatisfaction and inferior and damaged goods to contend with. In the case of goods being damaged en route the buyer has either the prospect of a lawsuit with the railroad company or a correspondence fight with the catalogue house, neither of which is very inviting.

Not infrequently does the buyer, rather than to go to all the expense and trouble incidental to the exchange of the article, allow himself to be imposed upon by accepting the inferior and often valueless article, an article which he is actually ashamed to own or use.

The Only Safe Way.
There can be but one right way to buy goods, and that is to have the goods in view of the purchaser. Buying from a picture is a reckless form of gambling in which the advantage is entirely with the seller. He knows what your money is. You do not know what his goods are. Hence it is heads he wins and tails you lose.

That the catalogue house always gets the better of the bargain is evidenced by the fact that annually the large mail order houses declare dividends the enormity of which appalls and bewilders the conception of ordinary individuals, who count their profits and savings in pennies rather than in millions.

There is but one right way to buy goods, and that way is to see what you buy before you pay for it.
